

PERSONALISED REPORT

Zoë's Anxiety Check

Completed 25 September 2026

A thoughtful snapshot of the patterns behind your answers, with a clear next step to consider.

YOUR RESULT: A clear invitation to support

It may be time to stop facing this alone

Your answers suggest anxiety is having a strong impact on your everyday experience.

SINCE LAST TIME

Since your last check-in on 12 June 2026, your score has moved from 82 to 75 — a lower score means these patterns are having less impact.

YOUR AREAS AT A GLANCE

Thought patterns

Main focus area 83%

Body & energy

83%

Avoidance

Strongest area 50%

Self-trust

83%

WHAT YOUR ANSWERS ARE TELLING US

Thought patterns

Your answers suggest anxious predictions are loud and hard to switch off. When the mind is working this hard to keep you safe, it can feel as though the worst is always just around the corner.

Body & energy

Your body may be carrying a lot of anxiety right now, through sleep, energy or physical sensations. Those sensations are uncomfortable but understandable, and they can settle as your nervous system learns it is safe.

Avoidance

There may be a few places, people or decisions that anxiety is quietly steering you away from. Avoidance brings short-term relief, but over time it can make the world feel smaller.

Self-trust

Anxiety may be leaving you feeling unsure you can handle it. That is not a flaw — it is often what happens after a long time of coping alone, and confidence can be rebuilt.

THINGS YOU TOLD US

"How often do you find yourself expecting something to go wrong?" — Almost always

You said you almost always expect something to go wrong. Living on high alert like that is exhausting, and it makes sense that you would want some relief.

"How often does anxiety affect your sleep or physical energy?" — Most days or nights

Anxiety is affecting your sleep or energy most days. Being tired makes everything feel harder, so be gentle with yourself about what you can manage right now.

"How ready do you feel to understand and change your relationship with anxiety?" — I need a clear next step

You said you need a clear next step. Your result below includes one, and Paula is happy to talk through what it could look like for you.

IN YOUR WORDS

Is there anything else you would like Paula to know?

Mornings are the hardest — especially before work.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR YOU

A calmer way forward

You have already taken a brave first step by looking at this honestly. You do not need to wait until things become unbearable before asking for support. A calm, structured plan can help you understand what is happening and start loosening anxiety's grip.

YOUR NEXT STEP

What a first conversation with Paula can look like, without pressure or judgement.
Talk to Absolute Mind: <https://absolutemind.co.uk/contact/>

A note from Paula

Thank you for taking the time to do this check-in. However your result looks today, noticing these patterns is a real first step. If you would like to talk it through, I would be glad to hear from you.

If you need support right now

If you feel unable to keep yourself safe, call 999 or go to your nearest A&E.
For urgent mental health help, call NHS 111 and choose the mental health option.
Samaritans are there day or night, for free, on 116 123.
If you would rather not talk, text SHOUT to 85258.

ABOUT THIS CHECK-IN

Prepared for Zoë Ní Bhriain. This check-in is for reflection. It is not a diagnosis or a substitute for medical advice. Your score is a reflective snapshot to help you notice patterns and decide whether a conversation or further support would be useful.

View your results online: <https://check.example.com/results/abc>